What's New In Photoshop CS4?

The present invention relates to control apparatus and methods for a car wash bayline fixture and, in particular, to a combined length adjustment and cover removal and installation apparatus and method. Presently, there is a need in the art to provide a car wash bayline fixture or system that combines functionality of length adjustment, cover removal and installation, and an adaptor block that facilitates the installation of the fixture. An important application for the present invention is to combine the functionality of a bayline fixture with an adaptor block that facilitates the installation of a fixture. Bayline fixtures are used to clean and rinse vehicles in car wash systems. The fixture often includes an adaptor block that receives the fixture and prevents the flexing of the fixture in the bay. To install the fixture the adaptor block must first be removed. The user can then remove a cover from the fixture that is held in place with hooks. Prior art bayline fixtures are typically installed with a fixture handle that is coupled to the fixture through a protruding fixture protrusion. The protrusion provides a pivot point about which the fixture handle can be pivoted to adjust the length of the fixture. The protrusion also provides a tactile point which the user can use to feel when the fixture is installed correctly. However, the protrusion can interfere with the installation of the adaptor block and the ability to remove the cover of the fixture. This can be particularly frustrating for a user of a fixture that is part of a combination assembly.
